PARA'NO CONSOLIDATED.

An extraordinary general meeting of the Pahang Consolidated Company, Limited, has been held in London to consider "proposals for increasing the capital of the company, Mr J. E. Champney presiding. In moving the resolutions, the chairman, according to a report in The Minuncier. said that that meeting was the natural sequel to what had been said at the annual meeting in December last. He had then referred to Mr Frocheville's proposed visit to their property, and had told them that if his report should prove favourable, they, had good friends who would aid them with money for such further development of the mine as he might advise. Since that date they had had Mr Frecheville's report, and the result had been, they were strongly of opinion, that his suggestions should be carried out. These involved probably an altimate expenditure of £70,000. Then, regarding rubber, he had said in December last that some 2.000 trees had come into full hearing, that Javanese coolies would be brought over in connection with the tapping of the trees, and that, in view of the estisfactory growth of the estate, it was proposed, if possible, to increase largely the screnge, and application had already bien made to the government. Meanwhile, the outburst of extraordinary activity in rubber had come upon them, and they would, indeed, be losing their opportunities if they did not take the ntmost advantage of the suitable land adjacent to their present plantation, and of that lying alongside their line of rallway. Le to the adjacent property, the survey of the whole had been completed, and 820. mores were considered, both by their rubber estate manager and by the serveyer, as fully equal to any on the existing estate. The clearing god planting of the additional land would involve considerable capital expenditure, and they had also to think of having sufficient working capital Alborether, they had arrived at a sum of £125,000. That sum would be assured by the passing of the resolutions bofore the meeting for i had all been under written. The resolution were christed

ROOSEVELT, THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

The Washington correspondent of The Times sends a very rivid pen picture of Mr Thoodore Roosevelt, who as Reuter's telegrams tell us, is once more in his native

America :-- " Not the least remarkable feature of remarkable political situation is the part which Mr Roosevolt-or rather M Roosevelt's name—is playing in it.

It is impossible, indeed, to describe the expectancy which surrounds the impending roturn of the ax-President. One has to COLE PROPRIETORS of TAKA- both the atmosphere of American politics and of American public life to begin to realize it. There is something intangible, incomprehensible, illusive in it all. It we always supposed that, when Mr Roosevelt, went off after big game, he did so, to leave his successor absolutely free to make his mark in the Presidency. Yet what has happened? Mr Roosevelt emerges from the jungle. The past year is wiped American politics are oncomore dominated by the shadow of a familiar figure. What doesit all mean? Howhas a man, still young as statesmen go, come to dominate so tremendously the imagination of a people essentially practical and of keenly in dependent political sense?"

THE SECRET OF HIS INFLUENCE. The answer, breadly speaking, is this. Mr Roosevelt represents all that is vitalall that is fresh, all that to the majority of the people is desirable in American public life. His personality has helped the popularity of his policies; his policies and the time and method of their enunciation have brought into the clearest relief a personality always emphatic and always attractive to the imagination. When Bir Roosevelt left the White House the illegal use of wealth and commercial influence had been made more difficult. The old order of selfish politics had been hard hit. Above recognize their shortcomings and those of their political leaders. They had been given ideals, and had been shown how to enforce them. To think of Mr Roosevelt as a great constructive statesman would be entirely to misapprehend the character of his Administration. While in the White House he was the first to recognize that his mission and his genius were both destructive. He was clearing; his successor was to build. He never tried to evolve in his study a Constitutional fabric. His object was star the people to a sense of their wrongs and of their power to right them. ...

HIS DRAMATIC SENSE. Next to the evident righteousness of his purpose Mr Roosevelt probably owes more to his mustery of the art of dramatic appeal than to anything else. He stage-managed his Administration with extraordinary skill. He was always the central figure of some incident. It might be the discovery of some alarming conspiracy to discredit him, it might be some noisy squabble with Congress, the lie direct given to some prominent man, or it might be some startling walk . or some other quite trivial unconventionality. Nor, to vary the metaphor, did he ever strike a false note-or, if he did he drowned its vibrations before they could he heard. And how could he have held his own had he not been able and willing to beat the politicians at their own game? Though he was unable to effect much against the hostile organization of his own party so far as legislation was concerned, he was, at any rate, able to parry its attacks. His skill in political strategy, was surprising. Whenever his enemics thought they had him he would, by some extraordinary move, turn up upon their flank. His tactics may not always have been consistent; but their success was inevitable. At the lend of his Administration, though the Conservatives were still strongly in-772 trenched in Congress, he was able to dominate the National Republican Convention and dictate the homination of Mr

MIN MANY SIDEDNESS. Mr Roosevelt's present popularity is, indeed, the best justification of his Presidency. It means that the ideals for which he stood are now the ideals of the country. It means that the old order which heattacked is almost bound to pass. But his popularity cannot be explained entirely by the success of his propaganda, Political appea S would, have been useless without the appeal of personality. His drastic efforts would have been accounted melodramatic, and he would have been hissed into a corner of the stage had his character not compell. ed respect and love. Mr Roosevelt is very much a man. That even his enemies admit. His admirers, and they are in the great majority, go further and look upon him as embodying all that is best in American citizenship. His versatility, the cleanness of his life and record, the sudden stages of his career, each more successful than the last, have all endeared him to his countrymen. They smile at at his affectations; be they do not think them mawkish. Each man, moreover, finds something in Mr Rocsevelt that appeals to him. To the Easterner the ex-President is Harvard man, the father of Harvard men, and the New York reformer; to the Westerner he is the surcessful rancher. and the keen hunter. The soldier, be be from the West or East, remombers (Convinued on Page 3.)

A Grateful Wife

Maternity Weakness, Rheumatic Fever, Depression—

Just sitting still and thinking everything possible has been done, does not suit Mrs. Wilson, for all the usual ways failing to restore her husband's health, she tried the Royal way-the Phosferine way. The benefit was immediate, for all the depression and weakness of rheumatic fever, which change of air, diet, and friends had failed to relieve, diminished with every dose of Phosferine. This triumphant outcome of Mrs. Wilson's devoted vigilance is typical of the exceptional efficacy of Phosferine, but of still deeper importance is her assurance that before, during, and after childbirth she herself derived such an access of strength and vitality from Phosferine, that weakness, lassitude, or distress was not in any way experienced.

Decidedly Abolished.

Mrs. E. Wilson, 41, Bedford Road., Grays, Essex, writes:-" My husband started taking Phosferine after a severe bout of rheumatic fever, and although he went away to the seaside for change of air failed to make any headway. He wrote complaining of always feeling tired and despondent, and doubtful as to whether he would ever be able to resume his business. I sent him a 2/9 bottle of Phosferine, and after a few doses, he felt a great deal of difference, and before his supply was finished was quite himself again and ready and able to do a hard day's work with anyone. I am also very grateful for the good Phosferine has done me in maternity weakness; before my child was born I took it regularly and it strengthened me wonderfully, the subsequent tax upon my constitution was not half so great as one would naturally expects I am certain Phosferine taken by mothers is a great help both before and after child-birth, as it supplies just the strength needful at this time, and moreover, imparts strength, and stamina to both, and I assure you I am very proud of my beautiful baby girl."-February 8, 1910 phenomenal and the colonizing movement has met with a measure of success unknown in the history of the nations of the past, but considers it open to question if the Imperial idea has permeated the different units of the Empire to such an extent as to ensure, without any possibility of doubt, concerted action under all circumstances. It believes action to be necessary to counberact the natural centrifugal and 'individualistic tendencies now visible in the Dominions. It concludes its article in these terms :-To think Imperially, it is necessary to put the idea of profit in the back-ground, primarily involves sacrifice. It has proved a stunibling block to the matter-offact English mind which shuns abstract ideas as worthless. The Colonists are nothing if not practical. As the material advantages accruing from Imperialism were not plainly set out before them, they regarded Imperialism as a [beautiful dream, but a dream not to be taken seriously. It was the master mind of Mr Joseph Chamberlain which conceived the idea of supplying a practical scheme for the enion of Greater Britain. Tariff Reform should inculcate the habit of thinking imperially in the Colonies, Leaving aside its commercial advantages Tariff Reform will prove of immense value in bringing together the various units of the Empire. It will supply the common interest which is so badly needed. With. out a common purpose, the disintegration process within the Empire must continue The desire to be absolutely independent now obtaining in some quarters in Canada will result in the re-birth of the Dominion as a new nation. - Australia and South Africa are already autonomous. A bond of sentiment would have been sufficient in the case of a less practical-minded people to keep the Colonies in close touch with the Mother Country and with each other. In the case of the British Celouies, a commercial bond is needed to keep alive the sentiment of consanguinity. The separatist movement in the Colonies must be arrested at all costs. Once the labour propaganda holds the Colonies in its antennae, the States will naturally hedge themselves round with laws which will allow the labourers powers to prevent others from scoking work in their States." We cannot look with equanimity at the prospect of the Colonies at cross purposes with each o her in the future. But the acceptance of Socialism must inevitably lead to that. These small self-contained States when they are ruled by Labourites will entirely lose sight of Imperial obligations and act without any reference to the world policy of the Mother Country. Only a crusade in the cause of Imperialism can bring about a change in the attitude of the Colonies. Unless each State acts from the supreme motive of serving the Empire first, and Imperial obligation forms the pivot of its actions, it cannot be said that the experiment of empire building his been a success. At the present moment, the Dominions are busy with their independent schemes. The Loperial idea is but faintly understood and is not the dominant principle in the Colonies

it should be in spite of the enthusiesm some exinced for the solution for the defence of the Empire."

THE VALUE OF HUMAN LIFE

IN RUSSIA. READUNG some statistics recently pulb figures are published: "1904, 427 lished by Professor JHANKOUK, a "well- 1905, 254; 1906, 532; 1907, 766; 1908. known Russian writer, regarding the 1,442; 1909 (six months only), 4,191. a great many Japangee will be in England number of lives which have been. The suicides only decreased in 1905 sacrificed in Russia during the last few when the liberation movement was, full years of the modern edition of "The of optimistic hopes, "and before the year following the close of the war lives by execution, "Pogroms," or other are the most painful features of Russian violent means; in 1906 the figures had sunk to 10,141; while they rose in 1907 to 12,811; retreating in 1908 to 10,204 and in 1909 to 8,170. "Dr. JHARKOFF declares he has watched the press carefully to obtain the most accurate data; 'yet his statistics understate the real facts. "They do not give the complete" story for Government tyranny." the past six years, he tells us; the huge death-roll has resulted from four causes. The first is the "pogroms," i.e., the organized plunder by one part of the population on another. This violence is generally engineered by the Government, or by the police-prompted "Black Hundred" against the Jewish communities. The second cause is the fury of bourb-throwing revolutionaries against officials or capitalists, The third cause of mortality is the severity of the courts in passing sentence of death, and the fourth is the wide-spread despair, ending in suicide. The professor gives the following figures, for executions in 1909: "During the year 1,457 people were condemned to death by court-martial. Of these 582 were reprieved, and terms of imprisonment substituted for the death-penalty; 54

It has quite lost its political aspect, and attacks on wealthy autocrats are now made for purposes of robbery and plunder. The victims are generally rather than leaders of the Government or its officials. There is no doubt that afternoon. the success, if it may so be called, of the method of political assassination has followed. Only one-quarter of the six armoured cruisers, eighteen destroyers victims of the Terror in 1909 had any connection with the Government, and most of these were soldiers', policemen, and guards who had taken part in various pogroms." The Russian pogrom is a peculiar species of revolutionary demonstration and seems to have been animated, we are told, by class-hatred, racial aversion, and a passion for gain in the way of robbery. Dr. JHANKOFF says of the pogroms: "Formerly thousands people took mart in them; now there and never more than a few hundred The motives behind these events have also changed. They have lost their political, national, and religious aspects here once again the plundering section of the people have adopted pogroms s a method of robbery and spoliution. Occasionally a family quarrel leads to a small pogrom. The horrible condition of the people, the destitution and unemployment which are so rife are no doubt the cause of this wide-spread

"Suicides and attempts at Suicide are fast increasing in number, Of course our statistics show only small proportion, hut the municipal authorities give additional information. In Moscow, attempts at suicide have riser from 594 in, 1908 to 675 in 1909. The traffic of course is far ground and actually returned with it to the and away below the yearly turnover at Canton, the average being 5000 chests local imports which rarely 20 chests a week. In this the new regime and the superintendance of Major Santos, the reversion to former methods of supervision has brought about an appreciable decrease in the smuggling of boiled opium from Lappa. Informers are now more liberally met and a direct consequence is a progressive absence of contraband which has already told favour of the Colony. Three arrests or an average are reported daily and over 200 individuals now encumber the public gaol. Tenders for the sole right to beil opium

NEWS FROM WUCHOW.

(From Our Own Correspondent.) Wuchow, June 17. We are glad to state that though the beginning of the year was marked by much unsettlement, robbery, and violence, things have been much better lately. Of course from other places in South China which we hear occasionally of piracy, and robbery, but nothing more than is usual in this province. Information comes to us seems to indicate an nurrestful spirit among the people, but we are glad to be able to say, that so far the Kwang-sai province remains quiet. Unfortunately WATKINS' some of the rice crop has been destroyed through drought as the rain came too late. The price of rice is consequently high and this tends to breed discontent. We are hoping that we may be saved from floods for should we be unfortunate enough to have inundations this year, trouble might

CHANGE OF OFFICIALS. The recent riots in the Human Province have led to many officials being deprived of their posts or sent to other places and this has had some effect on the Governmen of this province, for the Provincial Judge. Chin In Pan, has been sent df at short notice to Chang-sha to assist in the restoration of order. The Tactai of Industries is in the meanwhile fulfilling the duties judge as well as his own special duties. The Taotai of Industries is a man who is greatly respected by all classes and he bears perhaps the best reputation of all the officials of Macao followed the devout retinue which in the Provincial Government.

> DISMISSING INCAPABLES. The Peking Government has recently Ravenshaw of Rutholme, by Bertram sellt a deputy named Chu to make a thorough investigation into the management of the Provincial Arsenal. The deputy found that many men engaged there were of no use as they had not the least idea of fulfilling their duties and he at once dismissed them. The Viceroy was informed of this fact and requested to send a report to the War Minister. It is said that the Government is very short of funds and these dismissals are as much on the grounds | S1, Queen's Road Central

As before reported the heavy drought has atterly destroyed the rice crop and the Government fearing riots have bought large quantities of this cereal from Annam and other places in the South. This rice has now arrived and persons who are very poor may obtain tickets from contain Yamens and buy the grain at very cheap rate Many matsheds have been erected in the City and Honam and the rice is being put on sale to-day. The Government deserve much praise for their prompt action in thus crippling the assistance procurable at obtaining the rice and it will doubtless prevent any such occurrences as have lately 21 to 18. my notice of a family whose only income is 16 cents a day which is carned by the and cannot or will not work; there are evening. - The teams were :live together in one small room for which and C. EXTORTING CONFESSIONS IN INDIAN POLICE STATIONS.

Lord Morley is one of the most humans of men. No one has written more glowingly than he im praise of the humanitarian services rendered by Voltairs when he made Europe ring with his denunication of the torture of Calas. An Scoretary of State for India, continues Mr W. T. Stead in the Review of Reviews, Lord Morley has an opportunity of giving practical expression to the sentiment which inspired Voltaire: If the official reports may be believed, able pamphlet compiled by Mr Mackar. ness, torture is habitually employed in Indian police stations and in Indian prisons, over which Lord Morley exercises absolute authority, It seems to be the common practice of the Indian -police to extort confessions from their prisoners by methods at which even the executioners of Calas would have stood aghast. To rub cayonne pepper into the eyes of a suspect is only one, and that not by any means the most revolting of the methods employed by the police, who are acting under the direct control of Lord Morley. The infernal system, no doubt, is of old growth, Much, of the evidence quoted by Mr Mackarness dates back to Lord Curzon's time. But there is evidence enough to prove that the practice is still prevalent. Unfor tunately, there is no evidence whatever to Show that, with the exception of one solitary case, a single policeman has been punished. This is a matter on which it ought to be possible to take prompt and decisive action. If Lord Morley cannot keep his policemen from torturing those whom they posterity think of Lord Morley ? He will be judged, not by the sulogium he pronounced upon Voltaire, but by the fidelity with which he applies Voltaire's principles to the administration of his police in

Mr Mackarness's paniphlet has been prohibited in India.
